

Will Power

12

verizon^v

Will Power

Birthdate: March 1, 1981

Birthplace: Toowoomba, Australia

Residence: Charlotte, NC

Height: 5'10"

Weight: 155 lbs

Website: willpower12.com

Facebook: willpower12

X (formerly known as Twitter) : @12willpower

Instagram: @12willpower

Chassis/Engine: Dallara/Chevrolet

Race Strategist: Ron Ruzewski

Engineer: David Faustino

Chief Mechanic: Trevor Lacasse

One of the most successful drivers in Team Penske and INDYCAR history, Will Power enters his 20th NTT INDYCAR SERIES (NICS) season in 2024. As a two-time series champion and Indianapolis 500 winner, Power has already secured his position among the all-time greats in North America's premier open-wheel racing series. His 41 career victories place him alone in fifth place on INDYCAR's all-time wins list as he begins his 16th season driving for Team Penske. In qualifying, Power has no equal as his 70 career NTT P1 Awards represents the most poles won in INDYCAR history.

An emotionally draining start to 2023 contributed to a challenging NICS season for Power that saw his streak of 16 consecutive seasons with at least one race victory come to an end. As the season progressed, Power rounded back into form and continued to leave his mark on the INDYCAR record books. He won both pole positions for the Iowa Speedway doubleheader weekend to extend his all-time series record and his four podium results on the year helped propel Power to a seventh-place finish in the championship standings.

Power and his wife, Elizabeth, reside in Charlotte, North Carolina with their young son Beau. Power is an avid fitness enthusiast and amateur drummer. In recent years, the native of Toowoomba, Australia has continued to build on his love of go-kart racing by giving young racers opportunities to hone their skills.

