Scott McLaughlin continued his evolution from championship-winning touring car driver to NTT INDYCAR SERIES superstar in 2025 as he produced on track and demonstrated leadership for the Team Penske INDYCAR program that endured an uncharacteristically challenging season. Though the native New Zealander did not win a race for the first time since his rookie INDYCAR season in 2021, McLaughlin was consistently competitive throughout the year to finish inside the top 10 in the final series standings for the fourth consecutive season. He returns to compete in the No. 3 Chevrolet with the backing of an outstanding partner lineup that includes Odyssey Battery, as McLaughlin and the team look to regain their race-winning form in 2026.

McLaughlin resides in Charlotte, N.C. with his wife Karly and their daughter Lucy. A proud sports fan, McLaughlin has adopted the Carolina Panthers as his favorite NFL team, and he also follows the University of Wisconsin Badgers college football team. McLaughlin continues to root for New Zealand's All Blacks rugby team, and he is an avid golfer.
